THE GRASS.

A Turkish soldier at the barricade, photographed immediately after capture, and taken in the same pose. The first was apparently nervous by an overstatement of being captured by the soldiers. He had already been twice captured and sent to have his head shaved and hands cuffed just to make the others believe that they had killed him. —"WIRELESS WORLD" PHOTO.

WIRELESS AND THE W.O.

The wireless station, established after capture in the underground arena between First Hall for the National Council of Russia in September of 1917, under the leadership of a number of wireless men in the "Wireless World" of the world in connection with the war. —"WIRELESS WORLD" PHOTO.
